Sale total: £39,886

The first ever Doulton, Beswick, Wade Fair & Auction at Elsecar Heritage Centre certainly laid positive foundations for expanding on the formula.

Visitor numbers were reasonably good, given the current market climate. Going over 400+ was always a yardstick to aim for, and with extensive advertising (including regular radio slots the week prior), plus leaflet dropping around the region, it was certainly a relief to top expectations. Many collectors and dealers were uncertain how a Fair & Auction would work side by side - but this tried & tested BBR formula has built a solid regular following to Elsecars Blg 21 events.

The Fair

Auctions attract an audience. Fairs attract an audience. By combining the 2 there can be 2 bites at the cherry. Given the present reluctance to spend readily main highlights proved to be some good Lambeth stoneware sales early, and later a Duchess with flowers changing hands for a (believed) £1,450.

Nick Tzimas of UKI International Ceramics was upbeat about the inaugural event "the venue and facilities are fantastic", the steam train outside simply added to the ambience of this location, whilst the on-site Antiques Centre was bustling all day with, not surprising, good sales of Doulton, Beswick & Wade.

The Auction

The sale presented a very good range of items right across the production span of all three companies, the vast majority without reserve. Unfortunately it was somewhat over long, but that will be rectified next time, with minimum lot values increased to £50 (on a bad day), meaning doubling up some storybook and lesser character jugs and such.

The sale was though, if nothing else, a very clear barometer of the current market - with desirability, condition and rarity top of everyone's hit lists.

As expected, there were plenty of snips - although those in the know already knew what to expect, and what would still perform well.

Some realisations (inc. premium + vat): Figures - Antoinette HN 1851 £430. Hinged Parasol ('37-'49) HN 1578 £410. Kate Hardcastle HN 2028 £285. Hinged Parasol HN 1579 ('33-'49) £230. The Auction next time

After speaking with some dealers, and visitors, one option is to split the auction next time - with an additional hour for trading - something along the lines - visitor opening 10am, auction Part 1 1-2pm, auction Part 2 3-4pm. Entries currently accepted for both specialist 2006 Doulton, Beswick & Wade sales, the second sale alongside the fair.

The Fair next time

We have already booked September 16/ 17 2006 (16 early set up, 17 open day). UKI & BBR are currently in negotiations concerning special editions just for this event - already MORE interest from dealers wishing to attend.
